

Please do not allow the CBA to interrupt the private time of Hoosiers. Allowing such a disruption takes away valuable time spent with families and other works of importance.

I worry about the persons living alone, such as the elderly or impaired, who are perhaps not able to judge as soundly the "offers" presented to them. Such people are easily taken advantage of.

Banks do not deserve the "established business relationship" they seek. And I, as do others, refuse to deal with telemarketers, which would waste their time in calling me in the first place and would CERTAINLY WASTE MINE!

Thank you for your time.
